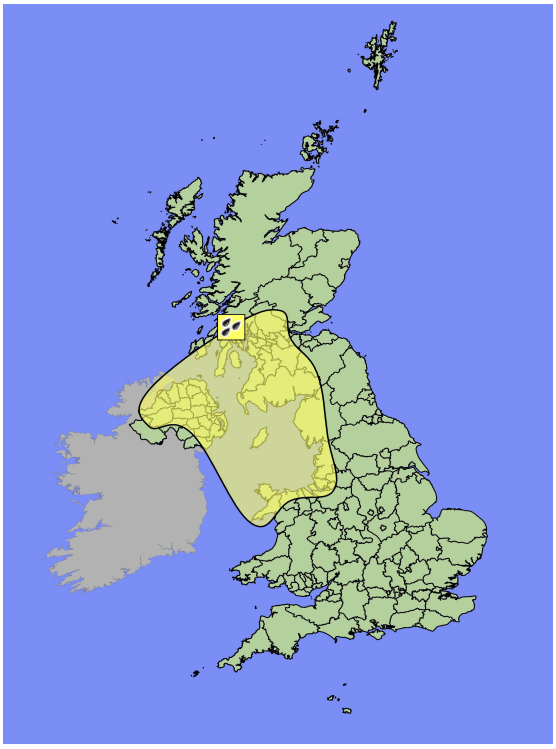
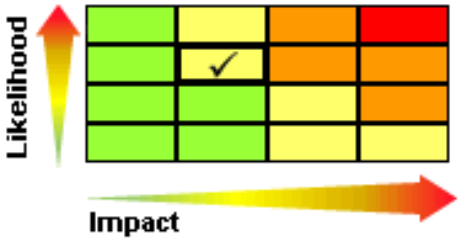
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A rapidly developing wave depression will cross the country Monday, and is expected to bring 20-40 mm of rain within the indicated area, and locally 40-60 mm on hills. Winds will gust to 50-60 mph over southern Scotland, northwest England and the far northwest of Wales, locally 60-70 mph, which could cause some damage. In the southern Grampians, where rain falls into cold air, it will fall as snow above about 400 m, where accumulations of 1-3 cm are possible.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 08:00 on Mon, 17th Oct 2011 until 20:00 on Mon, 17th Oct 2011

An area of heavy and persistent rain will spread across the north of Northern Ireland, much of southwest and central Scotland as well as parts of northwest England. This rain could lead to some surface water and localised flooding. There will be some snow over hills of central Scotland. It will also be very windy across the south of the area notably N England and N Wales.
